

Resident Director's Report to the NJAFP House of Delegates

May 3, 2024

Reema Iqbal and Esha Jain

On behalf of the Resident Trustees of the New Jersey Association of Family Physicians (NJAFP), Reema and Esha extend our sincere appreciation for the steadfast support extended to us over the past year. Serving as the resident directors for the 2023-2024 term, we are profoundly gratified to have underscored the significance of family medicine within the state of New Jersey. The realization of our endeavors in establishing a platform for fellow residents and fostering the future of family medicine owes gratitude to the devoted board members and our esteemed president for the 2023-2024 tenure, Dr. Sally Mravcak.

The aspirations we set forth in the preceding year found fruition, notably marked by the successful hosting of our inaugural resident meet-and-greet event. Furthermore, we have significantly augmented our social media presence to advance advocacy and education among prospective family medicine practitioners in New Jersey and beyond.

Engagement with individual board members of the NJAFP and active participation in board meetings have empowered us to effectuate change and contribute towards enhancing primary care in New Jersey. These contributions have not only fortified our organization but have also engendered a positive impact on the wider community of family physicians in the state. Through expanded outreach on social media platforms and the facilitation of additional resident events, we aspire to foster a collaborative exchange of insights with distinguished family medicine practitioners to perpetuate community education.

We trust that our unwavering dedication to the future of family medicine is palpable through our concerted efforts and genuine aspiration to effect meaningful change within the realm of family medicine.

As we reflect on the achievements of the past year, we acknowledge the pivotal role played by NJAFP board members and all stakeholders in our collective success. Your engagement has been pivotal in shaping the trajectory of NJAFP and ensuring its sustained advancement and prosperity.

We express our profound gratitude for your invaluable contributions and eagerly anticipate further collaboration in the future. Together, we shall persist in advancing the interests of family physicians and elevating healthcare standards for the residents of New Jersey.

Once again, thank you for your exceptional dedication and steadfast commitment to NJAFP.
